

Message from the Dean

As you walk in the main entrance of the College of Business there are several things that might catch your attention. Collectively, they also make a statement about who we are as a College of Business.

On the right is our Advising Office. The college has invested in a series of professional advisors to help students be successful. This office provides a convenient location and place where our students know they can go to get scheduling advice. The office is open every day the university is open to help ensure our students not only have the direction they need, but that they know where to go to get it.

To the left you will see our Career Services office. Our staff is there to help prepare our students for professional success. They help students develop spotless resumes, hone their skills as they go through a series of mock interviews and help students understand the preparation necessary to be successful in the interview process – regardless of whether it is for an internship or for a permanent position.

In the front of the hallway, you will notice a banner. That will change from time to time, but my personal favorite is immediately below:

We do not subscribe to the belief that 90 percent of life is showing up. You will need to be a willing participant in the process.

All of this and you will have just stepped inside the front door! We really shine when you start engaging our wonderful faculty and staff.

In the College of Business we want you to be successful. We have academic programs based on what industry has indicated they need, a caring faculty who will have high expectations but will work with you to meet or exceed them, and a supportive staff who both help you find your way and prepare you for professional success.

We are proud of our College of Business. If we sound like the environment you are seeking, I invite you to contact us, take a tour of facilities, and sit down and talk with some of our faculty and staff. If you are “ready to step up your game,” we want you to be a part of a great College of Business.
