Section I.c Enrollment

Provide the number of students in the teacher preparation program in the following categories. Note that you must report on the number of students by ethnicity and race separately. Individuals who are non-Hispanic/Latino will be reported in one of the race categories. For the purpose of Title II reporting, an enrolled student is defined as a student who has been admitted to a teacher preparation program, but who has not completed the program during the academic year being reported. An individual who completed the program during the academic year being reported is counted as a program completer and not an enrolled student.

Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

The CPDT (Center for the Professional Development of Teachers) Advisory Board was instrumental in providing input in the planning process leading to the initiatives in current programs. CPDT members have provided key input in terms of school availability for student placement - which directly impacts program design. Furthermore, ongoing feedback concerning district needs and possible field based experience cycles have also played an important role in helping us to refine and advance our program.

In the field based courses effective strategies for English language learners are infused throughout the courses and addressed in the texts. Students in field based experiences consult with their mentor teachers on effective strategies and activities to teach English Language Learners. English Language Proficiency Standards (ELPS) is specifically addressed in course discussions of Pedagogy and Professional Responsibilities (PPR) Competency 2 (the teacher understands student diversity and knows how to plan learning experiences and design assessments that are responsive to differences among students and that promote all students' learning). .

In all programs (EC-6 Generalist, EC-6 Bilingual Generalist, 4-8 Generalist, and Secondary) students receive instruction on effective strategies and activities to teach English Language Learners. Two courses specific to the ELPS were designed, ESL 5333 (ESL Instruction/Assessment and the Acquisition of Language Concepts) and ESL 5334 (Foundations of ESL Education, Cultural Awareness, and Family/Community Involvement). All students who wish to know more about second language learners are encouraged to take these courses as well.

In the field based courses, inclusion and understanding the needs of exceptional learners are taught. These topics are also addressed in classroom discussions of PPR Competency 2. Field based placements are in schools that follow inclusion guidelines and candidates are encouraged to consult with their mentor teachers to discuss and observe how inclusion is addressed in their field placements.

In all programs (EC-6 Generalist, EC-6 Bilingual Generalist, 4-8 Generalist, and Secondary) students take coursework which includes the following objectives: exceptionalities among children with emphasis upon prevalence, assessment, characteristics, classroom management, and other educational considerations. Additional topics include legal factors in special education, bilingualism, parents and families, and current trends and issues.

Lessons in all field based experiences are critiqued by mentor teachers, University Supervisors, and field based faculty. Feedback is provided on how well teacher candidates successfully address students with special needs in their lessons as part of their critique.

Candidates submit electronic portfolios that include artifacts and reflections on PPR Competency 2, which include inclusion. Candidates are assessed on their demonstration of understanding and skills in this area.

Professional development seminars are offered online.

Texas Education Agency

Is your teacher preparation program currently under a designation as "low-performing" by the state (as per section 207(a) of the HEA of 2008)?

No

Section V Use of Technology

Provide the following information about the use of technology in your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request.

Does your program prepare teachers to:

- integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction
Yes
- use technology effectively to collect data to improve teaching and learning
Yes
- use technology effectively to manage data to improve teaching and learning
Yes
- use technology effectively to analyze data to improve teaching and learning
Yes

Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

Students in all programs take a course in Educational Technology. This course addresses the concepts in PPR Competency 9: The teacher incorporates the effective use of technology to plan, organize, deliver and evaluate instruction for all students.

Technology is integrated throughout the program at every level. For example, course assignments in the program include the use of a variety of software: PowerPoint, Photo Story, Moviemaker, Excel, Audacity, Publisher, and other web-based software to create presentations and curriculum materials.

In addition, all students are required to: 1) communicate by email, 2) use Blackboard Learn in their coursework, and 3) complete assignments using Microsoft Office Professional and other appropriate software. Technology is used by instructors to create and share course information with students, maintain communication, and model effective technology use. In addition, teacher candidates in all programs take SOSE 3320, Assessment and Evaluation of Children, in which the experience collecting, managing and analyzing data

Each student develops a professional electronic portfolio over the course of the program. Students present their updated electronic portfolio each semester to their instructor and/or classmates. Student technology proficiencies are evaluated when students present their updated electronic portfolio each semester, and through other technology based course assignments such as e-books, newsletters, podcasts, multimedia scrapbooks, webquests, and virtual field trips.

Lessons in all field-based experiences are critiqued by mentor teachers, University Supervisors, and/or field-based faculty. Feedback is provided on how well teacher candidates successfully incorporate technology in their classroom instruction.

Yes

Provide a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares general education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively, including training related to participation as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, and to effectively teach students who are limited English proficient. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

In the field based courses, inclusion and understanding the needs of exceptional learners are taught. These topics are also addressed in classroom discussions of PPR Competency 2. Field based placements are in schools that follow inclusion guidelines and candidates are encouraged to consult with their mentor teachers to discuss and observe how inclusion is addressed in their field placements.

In all programs (EC-6 Generalist, EC-6 Bilingual Generalist, 4-8 Generalist, and Secondary) students take coursework which includes the following objectives: exceptionalities among children with emphasis upon prevalence, assessment, characteristics, classroom management, and other educational considerations. Additional topics include legal factors in special education, bilingualism, parents and families, individual education program participation, ARD meetings, and current trends and issues. A special education content specialist was hired on our faculty to enrich the special education parts of our generalist programs.

Lessons in all field based experiences are critiqued by mentor teachers, University Supervisors, and field based faculty. Feedback is provided on how well teacher candidates successfully address students with special needs in their lessons as part of their critique.

Candidates submit electronic portfolios that include artifacts and reflections on PPR Competency 2, which include inclusion. Candidates are assessed on their demonstration of understanding and skills in this area.

In the field based courses effective strategies for English language learners are infused throughout the courses and addressed in the texts. Students in field based experiences consult with their mentor teachers on effective strategies and activities to teach English Language Learners. ELPS is specifically addressed in course discussions of PPR Competency 2, (the teacher understands student diversity and knows how to plan learning experiences and design assessments that are responsive to differences among students and that promote all students' learning).

In all programs (EC-6 Generalist, EC-6 Bilingual Generalist, 4-8 Generalist, and Secondary) receive instruction on effective strategies and activities to teach English Language Learners.

In all programs (EC-6 Generalist, EC-6 Bilingual Generalist, 4-8 Generalist, and Secondary) students receive instruction on effective strategies and activities to teach English Language Learners. Two courses specific to the ELPS were designed, ESL 5333 (ESL Instruction/Assessment and the Acquisition of Language Concepts) and ESL 5334 (Foundations of ESL Education, Cultural Awareness, and Family/Community Involvement). All students who wish to know more about second language learners are encouraged to take these courses as well.

Section VII Contextual Information

Please use this space to provide any additional information that describes your teacher preparation program(s). You may also attach information to this report card. The U.S. Department of Education is especially interested in any evaluation plans or interim or final reports that may be available.

The mission of University of Houston-Downtown's Department of Urban Education teacher preparation program is to address the needs of economically, linguistically, and culturally diverse pre-service teachers and learners. The program consists of four components that provide a strong foundation for the professional development of urban teachers (see Preparation Programs). Preparation Programs: Components: (1) Multicultural Curriculum: Before students are admitted to the program, they must take a prerequisite course entitled Culture of the Urban School. Once accepted into the program, students must take a minimum of 6 hours of multicultural courses. (2) Professional Development: Three 9 hour blocks of content designed to develop an understanding of the needs of individual learners. (3) Field-Based Instruction (three semesters): Students work with mentor teachers in urban schools. (4) Monitoring Student Success: Professional faculty supervise students who are placed in mentor teacher classrooms.

Admission Requirements: Although a GPA of 2.5 is required, many students are allowed the opportunity to improve their GPA by re-taking courses. Other support is also provided in education courses. Specifically, reading strategies are often taught and re-taught during the program in a variety of field-based and non-field-based courses. Students lacking math and science backgrounds receive tutorials and in-class instruction in the content of math and science in addition to developing teaching strategies for these subjects.

The undergraduate learning outcome goals for the Department of Urban Education are that graduates will demonstrate competency in the area of multicultural settings, effective teaching practices that enhance student learning, in the factors related to the development of effective teaching environments in urban classrooms, competency in the academic areas of language arts, social studies, mathematics and the natural sciences and in the area of computer/technology. In addition graduates will demonstrate competency on the state TExES exams and will be eligible for certification to teach in Texas. Assessment measures and outcomes indicate that the goals have been accomplished. By all evaluation measures, the Department of Urban Education program successfully demonstrates a high success rate of teacher preparation.

The Texas Educator Certification Online System (ECOS) test pass rates for the completion year 2013 exceeded the 80% acceptable rate in all disaggregate categories: all 92%, female 91%, male 95%, African American 89%, Hispanic 90%, other 86% and White 96%.

In addition, the comparison of teacher retention trends indicated by the Performance Analysis System for Colleges of Education (PACE) 2013 report of the five year retention of first-year teachers produced by the Center for Research, Evaluation and Advancement of Teacher Education (CREATE) reveals that the University of Houston Downtown retention was 92% in spring 2012 and 92.8% in spring 2013. These are the highest retention rates when compared to CREATE public universities, CREATE private universities, for profit ACPs, non-profit ACPs and the state total retention of 77.4% and 73.5% respectively. Student Characteristics: In Fall 2012, UHD had an enrollment of 13,916 students. The average age of the UHD student body was 27.1. The diversity of UHD's student body is evident in the following demographic data: Ethnicity: 40.3% Hispanic; 27.4% Black; 19.4% White; 9.0% Asian/Pacific Islander; 2.3% International; 0.6% American Indian; 0.9% Unknown. Gender: 60.0% Female; 40.0% Male.
