Meeting Proceedings

Presentation on UHD Faculty Handbook:

1. Nell Sullivan updated the assembly on the status of the Faculty Handbook.

   Question: Faculty Senate President Pepper asked Dr. Sullivan what the next steps are:

   Answer: Provost Hugetz replied that once the Faculty Senate reviews and signs off on the new version, the “interim” tag on the Faculty Handbook will be lifted.

   Question: Senator Kane asked if the Faculty Handbook could include information on faculty compensation.

   Answer: Dr. Sullivan noted that doing so was a good idea and would look into it.

2. Faculty Senate President Pepper opened the floor for nominations to be on the ad hoc Faculty Handbook Review Committee. Hearing none, he appointed Senators Hale, Rubinson, and Benavides to the Faculty Senate Faculty Handbook Review Committee and charged them with reviewing the interim handbook and reporting back to the Senate by the middle of October.

Presentation by Mark Gurrola, Texas State Employees Union (TSEU):

1. Mark Gurrola of the Texas State Employees Union addressed the Faculty Senate.

a. TSEU is a public sector union with ~12,000 members.

b. Several members are from public universities.

   Question: Senator London asked if the TSEU has had any success making effective change.

   Answer: Mark Gurrola answered that the TSEU has indeed had some success and pointed to the shared services concern at the University of Texas as a success story for the TSEU.

   Question: Senator Creighton asked if the TSEU could leave some contact information.

   Answer: Mark Gurrola replied in the affirmative.

Presentation on the status of the QEP

1. Drs. Khoja, Birchak, Beebe, and Robertson addressed the Faculty Senate on the status of the QEP at UHD.

a. The title of the QEP at UHD will be “Academic Achievement through Community Engagement.”

b. The main objective is to prepare students to think critically through three different levels of community engagement activities: Awareness, Integration, and Involvement.

   Question: Senator London asked if UHD students are actually the wrong type of student for this type of QEP.

   Answer: Dr. Robertson cited research that, actually, the UHD student body should gain the most by this type of QEP. Senator Creighton added that she was originally concerned with the QERP, but has since been convinced that this is the best way to go forward.

2. Dr. Birchak cited two pathways for community engagement:
a. Blanket approval for a set of courses (E.g., UHD 1300)
b. Singular course approval through an approval process initiated by the instructor.

Question: Senator Henney asked if the faculty are on board. She cited that the faculty in charge of POLS 2300 haven’t been approached about their participation yet the course shows up as having blanket approval.

Answer: Dr. Birchak replied that the department chairs have been made aware.

Question: Senator Benavides asked when the program will be implemented.

Answer: Dr. Birchak replied the target is fall of 2016.
Student Learning Outcomes

SLO 1: Students will be able to analyze community issues with respect to different perspectives, theories, or solutions.

SLO 2: Students will be able to analyze ethical dimensions in the context of community issues.

NOTE: Community Engagement designation (CE) requires adoption of SLO 1 or SLO 2 and a required self-reflection assignment.

Assignment: Students will be able to employ critical reflection to identify the impact of community engagement experiences in their personal career and/or academic perspectives.

Levels of Community Engagement

- Awareness: Students are introduced to the concept of community engagement through coursework examining social and community issues.
- Integration: Students continue to study community engagement through coursework enhanced with seminars, projects, internships, public deliberation events, etc.
- Application: Students connect coursework with community experiences by engaging in activities that require direct engagement with the partners in the field. Does not include Service Learning.

Community Engagement Course Designation

Two pathways are provided for acquiring the Community Engagement designation:

1. “Blanket” approval when supported by the departmental discipline is given for all sections of specific core courses enrolling large numbers of FTICs and having learning outcomes related to those of the QEP.
   - Examples: UND 1300, English 1302, POL S 2306, COMM 1304/3306, etc.
2. Individual faculty follow the identified process for submitting the required form for a course to be designated as Community Engagement.

All service-learning courses automatically receive this designation.
Presentation on the Spring 2015 GenEd Faculty Survey

1. Dr. Pepper presented some highlights of the Faculty Senate Spring 2015 survey of the faculty regarding GenEd.

Three major themes emerged from the responses: attainment of knowledge, ability to think critically, and the ability to communicate effectively.

1) Attainment of Knowledge
- Possess the ability to determine which information is valid and to critically evaluate that information. An educated person should have well-rounded knowledge outside of their discipline which would include arts, social sciences, and hard sciences.
- To be an educated person means having some knowledge about a broad array of topics as well as in-depth knowledge in a specific area.
- Appreciates knowledge in certain areas with general understanding of the universe and humanity, of whom one is able to think independently and to effectively communicate in various ways.
- A person who has learned enough to know what he/she does not know and who has acquired the skills to learn what he/she needs to know.

Three major themes emerged...

2) Ability to Think Critically
- An “educated person” is someone who has the ability to think critically, utilize evidence, and communicate ideas. They should also be able to analyze various perspectives in a global context.
- An educated person must think analytically and critically about issues important to the self, family, community, and world. They must be able to communicate the results of their thinking in clear and logical written work.
- To be able to engage oneself and others thoughtfully on the shared tasks of the current state of knowledge and critical thinking skills.
- An educated person should be well-versed in a general liberal arts core which currently satisfies by the Common Core. This core should be able to think critically, i.e., analyze an issue from different perspectives as well as take summarized position on the issue. The same person should be able to make informed educational decisions, and should have understanding of data and use it for informed decision making.

Three major themes emerged...

3) Ability to Communicate Effectively
- To be an educated person, multiple skills are needed in written and oratory expression, including but not limited to writing, reading, and speaking. Communication skills are one of the main criteria.
- The ability to use critical analysis enables to communicate clearly and concisely. Essential to being an educated person.
- An educated person is someone who has broad knowledge of many subjects, including those related to reading, writing, and communication. In addition to being knowledgeable about these subjects included in the common core, they are also well-rounded in current events.

This response states that 4/7ths of the faculty do not support any GenEd requirements beyond the lower division elements.
Question: Senator Hill asked if GenEd beyond the common core could be left to the programs or departments.

Answer: Dr. Pepper replied in the affirmative.

Question: Senator Baker commented that critical thinking requires interdisciplinary exposure by its very nature.

Answer: Dr. Pepper noted that there are many definitions of critical thinking. (E.g., Paul and Elder, reflection). Dr. Hale further commented (and Provost Hugetz confirmed) that UHCL, UHV, and UH do not have any GenEd requirements beyond the common core that the 120 credit hour degree handcuffs some programs with little or no flexibility due to long prerequisite chains.

2. Motion: Senator Benavides makes a motion to send a recommendation to UCC, “Since the faculty have spoken on the need for GenEd requirements at the upper division, to consider deleting the current GenEd requirements beyond the common core.”
   a. The motion was seconded by Senator London. Faculty Senate President Pepper asks for discussion. Hearing none, Senator Benavides calls the question. The vote ensues with 18 yeas, 2 nays, and 0 abstentions. Motion carries.

New Business:

1. Faculty Senate President Pepper noted that Staff Council and the SGA have asked that Friday’s be designated Gator Blue Fridays.

Next meeting:

The next meeting of the Faculty Senate is October 6th.

Adjourn:

Adjournment (First: Henney/Second: Connell) at 3:53 PM.
